

I can wholeheartedly recommend Mim Chadwick as a trustworthy, kind and competent person to help you with budgeting, forms and other personal admin. She has volunteered with Transitions, a project helping vulnerable adults to improve their independence and wellbeing since January 2018 and I have found her to be reliable, patient and caring. Her skills in financial management make her an excellent help with all things requiring careful and methodical work & organising skills.

I have always found Mim to be very caring, organised and reliable. She has a calm and relaxed manner and is extremely trustworthy. She has helped many young people through the Nightstop scheme, offering her support and kindness to those in vulnerable situations
